

The National Center for Appropriate Technology (NCAT) presents

Workshop and Farm Tour in Yolo County June 28 – 29

Integrating Pastured Poultry & Crop Production

Extremely practical!

- Egg and/or meat bird production practices: Raising chicks, housing, feed, forages, flock health, and strategies for integrating and rotating poultry with crops and other livestock
- Regulations and food safety: Existing federal, state and local regulations for egg handling and on-farm processing of meat birds; emerging food safety rules and common sense considerations for keeping good food safe
- Business planning & marketing: Enterprise and cash flow budgeting, recordkeeping, and pricing for financial sustainability

This Is a Two-Day Event

Workshop Thursday June 28, 8:30 am–5pm. Meet both days at Glide Ranch, 36355 Russell Blvd., Davis, CA
Farm Tour (by bus) Friday June 29, 8:30 am–4pm

Featured Farmers

- Chris Hay, Say Hay Farms, <http://sayhayfarms.blogspot.com>
- Nigel Walker, Eatwell Farm (invited), www.eatwell.com
- Alexis & Eric Koefoed, Soul Food, www.soulfoodfarm.com

Because we will cover a great deal of information and will travel by bus for the farm tours, we appreciate your commitment to participate both days whenever possible.

Please register online. Visit www.ncat.org and click on EVENTS at the top of the page to register and provide payment information.

You can help us tailor this workshop to your needs by sending an email to annb@ncat.org briefly describing any specific questions or challenges in your operation that you hope to address.

Cost: $20 for both days. Thanks to a grant from USDA's Risk Management Agency, NCAT is able to offer these workshops without charge except for the cost of lunches.

Please sign up or contact us if:

- You'd like to learn more
- You are interested in integrating pastured poultry with crop production (or vice-versa) more successfully, and you want to meet and learn with other farmers in your region
- You have a successful pastured poultry operation and are interested in being a farm tour host or a guest teacher
(Stipend provided. We honor your time!)
